8. ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS

The mission of the Allan Gray Orbis Foundation is to promote progress through entrepreneurship in an integrated Southern Africa by fostering high impact responsible entrepreneurs. The Foundation is looking for individuals with an entrepreneurial mindset who have the potential to become high impact responsible entrepreneurs.

The Foundation believes that all high impact responsible entrepreneurs are leaders. Below are two definitions that will assist you in completing the questions below.

High impact entrepreneur:

A principled individual that creates and/or personally owns all or part of an enterprise that offers a product, service or business model that is highly innovative, differentiated and scalable which results in adding substantial economic value through offering the public great value for money and doing so, results in the creation of meaningful jobs, profitable enterprise and stakeholder value.

High impact leader:

A principled individual that leads an organisation and/or makes a contribution in a field in a manner that is highly interactive, differentiated and scalable.

This question is in two parts.

a) Think of a situation where you demonstrated leadership abilities in your school or community.

- What was the situation?
- How did you demonstrate leadership?
- Describe some of the key actions and how you took them.
- What was the outcome/impact of your leadership?
- How has this been recognised?

Allan Gray Orbis Foundation – 5 Pillars

The Allan Gray Orbis Foundation is looking to support individuals who demonstrate the following characteristics as they pursue their entrepreneurial endeavour:

Spirit of Significance	A weight of personality that comes from living a life personified by passion and integrity. Recognition that ultimate personal satisfaction comes from empowering oneself in order that one might be able to serve others.
Achievement Excellence	The on-going pursuit of excellence with a tangible and specific focus on setting goals. A motivation to make a difference and leave a mark. To be bold, not looking back, but pressing forward in the pursuit of one's goals.
Intellectual Imagination	An enquiring and active mind demonstrated by an established record of intellectual achievement. An ability to see the unseen, challenge the status quo and suggest that things could be done differently to create new opportunities.
Personal Initiative	A person that makes things happen and celebrates the satisfaction of bringing new things into being. Independent, proactive and self starting. A person who is willing and able to make their own decisions.
Courageous Commitment	The courage and dedication to continue, realising that applying consistent commitment has a way of overcoming.

Having read the application criteria (5 Pillars) above, I recommend this applicant for the Allan Gray Fellowship because:
